About JGZ Kennemerland

Every parent or caregiver wants their child to grow up safe and healthy. In the Netherlands, we work with parents at the youth clinic to make that happen. Our paediatricians and paediatric nurses are standing by to support parents and help with solutions if there are any questions, be it a question about your child's health, vaccinations or parenting advice. We can help with that and more!

How does the youth clinic work?

Our assistant will welcome you and your child at each visit to the youth clinic. They will weigh and measure your child, after which you will see the paediatrician or paediatric nurse. You can discuss any questions you may have with them. The paediatrician or paediatric nurse will also look at your child's growth and development. They will examine your child to check that all is well and administer vaccinations if necessary. After each examination, they will discuss the next appointment with you. You can also contact us if you have questions during your pregnancy.

All appointments, advice and help from our organisation are free.
